A MODEL GRAND JURY. Oriminal Practice in Arkansaw in Early

A history of the criminal practice of Arkansas would not only be a volume of bloody tragedy but would contribute largely to humorous literature Years ago, when Colonel W. P Grace was prosecuting attorney of a southern circuit he was determined, in view of the mexcusable lemency which prevailed to effect a reform by enforcing on the minds of grand jurous the necessity of punishing criminals On one occasion when court met at Arkaneas Post, the Colonel was particu-Inrly desirous of making a good record, The grand jury, described as an "onery lookin' set o' fellers," occupied a negro cabin, near the court house 'Now, gentlemen," and Colonel Grace, "carned annow demands that you should organize and get to work just as soon as possible." A man named Jacquins was elected foreman "Now," said the Colonel ' who will act as clerk? Won t you, 'addressing the most intelligent ooking member 'Kain t read nor write," replied the man 'Well, won't you"" addressing an

The Men Organizing to Protect the Company's Property and Their Own Reputations From Loss.

The Strike at Ft. Worth. Fr. WORTH, TEX., March 8 .- The railroad strike nere progresses. A call for a meeting at two o'clock was circulated yesterday morning. The strikers met and adjourned to meet at 8 p. m. in the Court-house in conjunction with the Mayor and business men. Five hundred men were present at the meeting last night. Speeches were made on both sides. The strikers are firm and deflatit. lineiness men said their sympathy ex-tended only so far as the men did not assome the control of the property of the toucht system. A committee of five from each side was appointed to confer and see if something could be done to get the toold system to restore the twelve and one-half per cent but in wages. The meeting was orderly. The strikers will send the result of the meeting to other points where the strike is in progress. The Sheriff yesterday offered to protect anyone who would work.

A few cars were moved, but the workers soon quit and joined the strikers. The officials refuse to awear out com-

> Moberly Bridge Men Go Out. Monning, Mo., March 8.-A portion of the bridge man, probably twenty-five, walked out of their department yesterday moratng, leaving the shop vacant. The strike on the part of these men is caused more out of sympathy for their fellow-workmen than oppression by the Wabash Company, though it is said by some that their wages were also out ten per cent, on the 25th of February, but the order has not been given then officially. The Wabash strikers are still out in a solid body here, but feel cherful over a notice published by the Missouri Car and Foundry Company to the effect that all who desire to work under the new management, should make apnot, however, go to work until every man to Gentry County, was totally destroyed. The total loss in dollars and cents is not short of $75,090. In addition to this, all of the records since the county was organized, including those of the Circuit Clerk, County Recorder and Probate Court, were destroyed, not a scratch of a pen being left. The Opera Block, con-sisting of four stores and offices, was en-threly burned. The new Court-house not being finished Circuit Court was in session in the Opera-house. All the records were lost. Three men were walting sentence to the Penlientlary. All the papers in the case were destroyed. This loss to the county can not be estimated. The origin of the fire is unknown, but is supposed to have occurred in the basement of Moore's grocery. Incendiarism is suspected. Considerable excitement is raging. The Circuit Court will meet in June. It is thought the Legislature will be called upon to assist the county per taining to court records.

The Harbor Grace Disgrace-The Orange

Sr. Jours, N. F., March 9,-In the House Saturday the Governor spoke at length upon the disturbed feeling arising out of the after at Harbor Grace on St. Stephen's Day in 1893. He orged that every effort should be made to allay the anger now prevailing. The usual formal address in reply to the Governor's speech re-echoed this sentiment.
Mr. Penny, an Orange member, moved an amendment to the address denouncing the Harbor Grace ontrage, and declaring that the present deplorable state of a fairs was the result of the disgraceful failure of justice at the recent trials of the River Head prisoners. This was op-posed by the Catholics in a body, and by members of the Government. Sir Win. Whiteway moved an amendment to the amendment, which was much the same in effect, but in more moderate tones. This was carried by a small majority, and as a result J. W. Donnelly, Minister of Customs, and R. J. Kent, Speaker of the House (noth Catholics) signed. The Catholic party is led by Sir Ambrose Shea, who is prevented by the political crisis from proceeding to Washington to negotiate for reciprocity.

WESTERN WATERWAYS. How "Improvement of Western Water ways Day" Is to Be Celebrated at the Cotton Centennial. Washington, D. C., March 9.—An address to the people of the Mississippl Valley, and all mercantile and commercial exchanges throughout the country, has been prepared by the Executive Committee on the Improvement of Western Waterways, and will be mailed to-mor-row. After stating that Congress adjourned without making any appropria-rions for the improvement of the Western waterways, and that among the many causes leading to that result was the failure on the part of the Congressmen of the Mississippi Valley to stand and vote together, the address says:

together, the address says:

The discussion upon the appropriations for Western waterways in the river and harbor bill revealed an opposition in the Western water was inexpected. For rossons nor made clear, many Western Congression is arrayed themselves in opposition to further work in improving our rivers. By their action and neglect the great work has been delayed, and unless vizorous measures are taken on the part of the people-interested in cheap water transportation, the work of improving our waterways will be abandoned or postponed for years. proving our waterways will be abundened or postponed for vears.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee held in talk city last January, it was determined by an unualmous vote that the Boards of Frade and other commercial organizations of the commercial centers of the Mississippi Valley States should be invited to read delegates to cells orate the "improvement of the Western Water Ways" bay" at a Ways Staten.

nanagement has given the use of the the management has given the use of the Music Hall for that parnose, and has designated April 7th and 8th as the days for holding the proposed Convention. Those days will be given to discussion as to what measures are necessary to reinstate this work of river improvement. The President of the United States and members of his Cabbet, members of the United States senate and House of Representatives, Governors of States, and Mayors of chies, are respectfully invited to be present and paracipate in this celebration.

Secretary Lincoln Donles Himself Great Pleasure to Do a Graceful Act.

Washington, D. C. March 8 .- When the commission was made out for the appointment of General Grant on the retired list, Secretary Lincoln retained It at the War Department, thinking It proper that the new Secretary should b given an opportunity to countersign it after its signature by the President, but the President sent for it in order that there might be no delay in making the appointment. Secretary Lincoln took the commission to the Executive Mansion in person and handed it to the President, remarking that he had not yet scled upon it because he thought that Judge Endicott would be pleased to attend to it as one of his first official duties, "That was very thoughtful of you, Mr.

Lincoln," observed the President, "I have no doubt it would be a pleasure to Judge Endicott; still, I will sign it my-sell that there may be no delay, and then Judge Endicott can countersign it.' President Cleveland thereupon affixed his signature. The commission, after official record was made, was returned to the War Dopartment. Yesterday morning it way on the desk of the new Secretary of War, and the first official act of Secretary Endicott was to countersign it.

What Governor Hezen is to Answer For. Washington, D. C., March 8 .- The exact charge against General Hazen which has resulted in the ordering of a court-martla!, is "conduct to the preju- at the Ascension Episcopal Church. dice of good order and military discipline in the violation of the sixty-second article of war." The first specification reeltes an extract from Hazen's last annua report, in which the official action of the Secretary of War is impugned. Hazen de-Secretary of War is impugned, Ilazen de-charing that "on the return of the escort ship bringing the Greely relief party to St. Johns, September 12th, 1883, there was still time to send ef-fective relief." The second specifica-tion declares that the Secretary of War, having decided in September that such a relief expedition to the Arctic regions was not practicable, General Hazen sent to the Secretary of War a com-munication declaring that "the tragic termination of the international Polar expedition was due to the decision not t dispatch a steam scaler to effect he rescue on the 15th of September, 1883," which he (Hazen) says he did all in his power to have done. The other specifications are in substance eleborations of the two indicated. General Black's Record. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.—The following is the war record of the new Commissioner of P usions, General John C. Black, of Danville, Ill.: He entered the United States service as a Colonel of the Thirty-seventh Volunteer Infantry. This regiment was organized at Chicago, Ill., September 18th, 1861, to serve three years. On the expiration of its term of service the original members (except vet-erans) were mustered out, and the organization, composed of veterans and recruits, retained in service until May 15th, 1865, when it was mustered out in accordance with orders from the War Department. The official list of battles In which this regiment bore an honorable part is as follows: "Pea Ridge," "Siege of Vicksburg," "Prairie Grove," "Blakeley" and "( halk Bluff," Mr. Black was promoted to Brevet Brigadier-General March 18th, 1865. He resigned August 15th, 1865; was wounded in both arms, and now draws a pension (by special act of Congress) of $100 per moath.

Made the Inauguration Pay. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 8, -The members of the Execu ive Committee on the ipanguration are now confident that the receipts for tickets to the ball and the promenade concerts will leave a substantial surplus after all expenses are paid. The surplus, if any, will be distributed for charitable objects, and all voluntary subscriptions will be returned. It is understood that the Pennsylvania Railroad brought and returned the entire militia of Pennsylvania which took part In the inauguration parade without cost to the State or commands. An estimate which is believed to approximate some degree of accuracy figures up a total of $1,000,000 as the amount dropped into the coffers of the hotels, saloons and eating-houses of Washington by the visiting strangers.

The "Back-bone" Land Grant Inquiry, WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.-Quite a lively discussion is looked for during this week on Mr. Van Wyck's resolution, calling for reasons why the Department of the Interior issued land patents to the New Orleans Pacific, or Back-bone", Rallway Company, while a bill providing for the forfeiture of the grant was pending in Congress. Mr. Teller now being a United States Senator will defend the action of the Department, and friends of the Senato say that his explanation will be entirely satisfactory to a majory of the Senate and that after a probably spirited debate, the question will slammer down and soon be forgotten.

Those who opposed the action of the Department in issuing patents, say that while the President was signing the patents, he had before him a petition signed by a number of Senators and Representia lives protesting against the issue signers of the petition were Senators Jonas, Morgan, Van Wyck, Hill and Walker, and Representatives Lewis, Cobb, Anderson, Henley and Holman. As the protest was ignored, its framers feel quite indignant.

Mr. Van Wyck is of opinion that the matter will require a great deal of explanation to blot out the irregularities hinted at in his resolution of inquiry. While on the other hand, friends of Senting ator Teller say that he had the authority of the Administration for his action i the matter, and will very readily make the matter clear to the entire satisfaction of a majority of the Senate.

The Special Session. WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9 .- Sen tor Cockrell, like many other Scuators does not apprehend that the special session of the Scuate will last more than a couple of weeks. It is thought if the Presidential nominations come in slowly. the Senate will fill up the time by considering further the pending treatles, but that the session will not be prolonged fo that purpose.

The vote by which the Nicaraugua treaty failed of ratification having, on motion of Mr. Edmunds, been reconsidered, it is probable that if work is again begun on the treaties this will be the first one considered. The indications do not warrant the belief that either of the treaties will be ratified during the special session, and it is believed as soon as Senators find that no agreements can be reached respecting them, they will be records of the Baltimore & Potomac Railroad show that during the inauguration week the road moved into Washington 401 trains, averaging fourteen cars to the train and forty-one persons to the car, from points North, East and West. Durldg the same period there arrived 184 trains from the South, averaging seven cars to the train and fifty-two passengers to the car. Four hundred and twentytwo Pullman cars were handled at Washington by this road during inauguration week. Superintendent Barker says this was thirteen more cars than the number of roads centering at Chicago run into the city during the Democratic and Republican Conventions.

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 9.-Yesterday was a quiet Sabbath at the Executive Manslon. There were but very few callers. The President, contrary to expectations, did not go to church, but remained in doors all day. Vice-President Hendricks attended morning service

CRUSHED TO DEATH. Horrible Accidentiat the Newport Bridge

CINCINNATI, O., March 9 .- A horrible accident occurred on the connection track under the Newport Bridge at about two o'clock yesterday morning, in which James Hanlon was instantly killed and Mike Nolan probably fatally injured. The yard engine of the Pan-Handle Road was switching a train of freight cars over to another track. One of the cars was a flat, and contained the demolished engine from the Northern Narrow Gauge which caused the fatal accident on that road several weeks ago. On the foot-board of the engine sat Hulon and Nolan, brakemen of the road; the train was moving along at the rate of about five miles an hour. When the flat car reached the bridge, the engine struck the structure with a crash that could be heard for squares. The force threw the engine off the flat-car and into the street, and tore the heavy from of the bridge loose. Nolan was found with part of the engine on his right ankle. His leg was horribly mangled, besides having sustained several severe cuts about the head. Hanton was found under the boiler. The upper part of his body was crushed beneath the engine and the bard bowlders.

Friday last Honest John Hockmberry and Pat Ryan were going about the city together. While near the Palace Hotel John got Ryan to loan him 50 cents, and as Ryan was taking his money from his pockets John got possession of a five dollar bill that he either took out of Ryan's pocket or hand or picked up off the walk where it may have dropped. Ryan reported that John had robbed him, and to day Officers Hartley and Brewer took John in custody. At police headquarters John confessed that he had $5 of Ryan's money, but insisted that he picked it up off the walk. He took the bill on Friday to Steeher's store where he got five silver pieces These he took to his home where Hartley found them to-day in his trunk Hockinberry is in jail and will be kept there until Pat Ryan comes in from the

There are 150 to 200 employed in the Wabash repair shops in this city whose wages are affected by the recent 5 and 10 per cent reduction ordered by the management, and while at Springfield, Moberly, Ft Wayne, Chicago and St. Louis there appears to be an organized opposition to the reduction, and many men have quit work, not more than eight of the employes at Decatur bave "walked out"quit work. The men continue at work. hoping for better times and advancement so they can command better wages. The cut so far as it affects the Decatur men makes a saving to the company of about $1,000 a month, while they require the men to perform more hours of labor, but many of the employes put in extra time During the past winter the time of work was 8 and 9 hours a day, now it is 10 hours. HONESTY IN ANIMALS.

Anecdotes Illustrating the Remarkable Fidelity of Dogs. Died at His Post Rather Than Lorsake

of morality is not so low that when a brute acts honestly it does so only becan a home ty is the best policy. There are many instances known of animals. ucting hone the when the slightest promptings of instruct would have shown that it was more politic to act otherwise Self-demal and self-sacrifice have been frequently needed of animids, and in the hour of temptation they have not succumbed. Neither feir, nor pain, nor the clavings of hunger have sufficed to deter many noble ininials of the brute world from their ense of duty. Quite recently the Canadian papers reported an anecdote of comme felelity which, had it been told of a Roman soldier or a flindu nurse, would have been bruited throughout the evalved world as an instance of humanity's supremest devotion to duty. The story as told to us is that, when e tring Montreal, the engine-driver of a train saw a great dog standing on the track and burking furiously. The giver blew his whistle, yet the bound did not budge, but cronching low, was struck by the locomotive and killed. some pieces of white muslin on the engine utracted the driver's notice; he topped the train and went back. Beside the dead dog was a dead child which, it is supposed, had wandered on to the track and had gone to sleep. The poor watchful guardian had given its signal for the train to stop, but unheeded, had died at its post, a victim to This is no solitary specimen of canine integrity. The author of "Salad for the Social" tells of a dog whose master deposited a bag in one of the narrow tipets of Southampton, and left his dog to grand it with strict injunctions not to leave it. This faithful creature was so stanch in the fulfulment of duty that rather than forsike its trust, it actually allowed a heavy eart to drive over it and exist it to death. It is not merely momentary impulse, not ignorance of the effects of this steadt istness as some may imagine that prompts animals to act thus faith record to prove that they will sustain hunger, endure pain and fatigue, and withstand temptation at the dictates of duty as gallantly as any human being Youatt is the authority for the following remarkable instance of camne in An officer returning from a day's shooting deposited his spoil in a certain room, in the custody of his dogs. Mechanically be locked the door, put the key in his pocket and departed. Soon afterward he was called away upon argent business, and during his absence of several days, forgot all about his game and his dogs. When he returned home he hastened to his room and there tound both dogs dead of hunger. Not only had they refrained from touching the game, but they had also kept quiet, having neither backed nor eried, evidently fearing to betray the trust they deemed their master had confided to them

It is related by Prof. Bell that when a friend of his was traveling abroad he one morning took out his purse to see if it contained sufficient change for a day's jaunt he proposed making. He departed from his lodgings, leaving a trusted dog behind. When he dined he took out his purse to pay, and found that he had lost a gold com from it. On returning home in the evening his servant informed him that the dog missing gold coin at his feet and then this gentleman had dropped the coin in the morning; the dog had picked it up and kept it in his mouth, fearing even to eat lest it should lose its master's property before an opportunity offered to restore it.

Prof. Bell also tells of a Newfoundland dog kept at an inn in Dorset, which was accustomed, every morning as the clock struck eight, to take in his mouth a basket placed for the purpose and containing some pence, and go with it to the baker's. The man took out the money, replacing it by a certain number of rolls, which Neptune returned home with. He never touched the entables; but on one occasion, when another dog attempted to despoil the basket master Nep put down his the basket master Nep put down ms burden and gave the intruder a thrashing; that accomplished, he regained his charge and carried it home in tribated and carried it home in tribated want upholstering done call on G. Le Vaillant details how he missed his favorite setter. After a fruitless search, and the repeated firing of his gun to guide the animal, he sent an attendant back by the way they had traveled to try and discover the lost favorits. About two leagues back on the route the dog was found keeping guard over a chair and basket which had been dropped unperceived from the wagon.

But for this fortunate discovery of the honest dog it must speedily have perished by hunger or from the beasts of prey. In Taylor's "General Character of the Dog" is given an account of one of these faithful animals which daily carried to a laborer in Portsmouth dock-yard his dinner. Trusty, as the dog was rightly named, had to take the basket containing his master's mid-day meal upward of a mile, so that he had frequently to rest on the journey. He was very careful as to where he deposited his load, and would not allow any one to come near it. When he reached the dock-gates he often had to wait until they were opened for the admission or egress of any one; but the instant he could effect an entrance he ran in with his charge and carried it to his master, who, after he had partaken of his dinner, redelivered the empty home again. In his "Essay on Instinct," Hancock tells of a dog belonging to a Glasgow taproom-keeper that was accustomed to carry its master's breakfast to him in a tin can between his teeth. When the family removed the dog changed his route, and never went wrong. It could not be induced to accept a favor when on its master's orrands, and carefully avoided any of its own species. This incorruptible servant, which, by the way, understood Gaelie as well as English, often carried home meat to the weight of half a stone, but never attempted to touch it. Dogs, indeed, rarely attempt to touch food belonging to their owners. One very remarkable instance is recorded by Jesse of a dog that accompanied its mistress when returning from market with a basket of provisions. They were overwhelmed y a snow-storm, and not discovered in three days; the woman was found to be dead, but the dog, which was lying by her side, was alive. The honest creature, however, had not touched the eatables in his mistress' basket, but, as neighboring villagers remembered when too late, had been endeavoring, on the evening of the storm, by whinngs and signs they could not comprehend, to induce them to follow it to where its mistress was.

Brown speaks of a mastiff that was locked up by mistake an entire day in a pantry where milk, butter and meat were within reach. The hungry dog did not touch any of these things, though it ate voraciously as soon as food was given to it. Colonel Hamilton Smith is our authority for the anecdote of a dog that
